

Emanate Health is participating in a Medicare initiative called Comprehensive Care for Joint Replacement (CJR) model. The CJR model aims to promote quality and financial accountability for care surrounding lower extremity joint replacement procedures, commonly referred to as hip and knee replacements and/or other major leg procedures. Emanate Health's participation in the CJR model should not restrict your access to care for your medical condition or your freedom to choose your health care providers and services. All existing Medicare beneficiary protections continue to be available to you.

The following list includes health care providers that have established a collaborator agreement with Emanate Health:
